Dozen dogs seized by Humane Society returned to owners

An ongoing investigation. Charges against breeder likely in 2-3 weeks time

JEREMY NOLAÏS
jeremy.nolais@metronews.ca

Officials have returned a dozen dogs to their rightful owners after seizing them from a house owned by a longtime Calgary breeder last month.

But no one stepped forward to claim an additional 21 pups taken from the Acadia residence — most have been put up for adoption and some have already found new homes, according to Brad Nichols, the Calgary Humane Society's manager of cruelty investigations.

The society has been criticized by a few apparent owners online, who claimed their animals were being held hostage.

But Nichols said his team was merely being diligent.

"We just weren't going to bend to public pressure and release these dogs before we had our evidence and before they were healthy," he said.

On May 13, a team of police, bylaw and society members worked to pull 33 dogs from the residence located in the 8000 block of Addison Drive SE. Two days later, the home's owner, Beverly Creed, was handed an order by Alberta Health Services deeming the property unfit for human habitation.

Lynn Knapp, who lives south of the border in Washington State, said her son drove up to retrieve three dogs seized from Creed's home last Friday.

She said she co-owned two miniature pinschers with Creed and had sent a family saluki to her for training.

Knapp, a longtime friend of Creed's, accused Humane Society officials of being "money-grubbers" and said they were wrong to seize the dogs in the first place.

"Most of the toy dogs that she had were very old — what are you supposed to do, shoot them? ... a real dog person doesn't do that," said Knapp, adding she forked over $2,000 to cover costs for the society's evaluations of her three pooches.

Nichols said it took weeks just to sort through ownership claims, but in recent days the focus has shifted back to Creed with charges expected in 2-3 weeks time. She could face up to $20,000 in fines and a lifetime ban on owning pets.

Scavenger art piece to bolster Calgary community spirit

Repurposing. One man's trash is another man's 'Water Spiral'

Right now it's a junky assortment of retired playset pieces, wooden doors and other household goods gleaned from this year's spring cleanup.

In less than two-months' time, however, that same hodgepodge collection will be constructed into something Wildwood residents are hoping will help grow food, flowers — and community.

Project lead Michelena Bamford grinned Thursday afternoon when asked to explain more precisely what's being built for a permaculture garden in the southwest community of Wildwood.

"It's a ... it usually takes a couple sentences to knock it down," she said, laughing. "It's a kinetic sculpture designed to capture rainwater."

In a bid to ease the water drainage issues currently plaguing community hall, Bamford and Co. plan to funnel rainwater into an underground cistern. A wood mosaic deck will be built above, equipped with a wind turbine to propel water through the system.

Community gardeners can then draw water up with a hand pump for use in washing or watering.

"It's a brilliant design," she said.

Bamford, a long-time inner-city resident, envisions the so-called "Water Spiral" as a lightning rod for community building in Wildwood.

"We're looking for gathering spaces to draw in commun-

Startup finds broad range of jobs for people with autism

Meticulon. Individuals on autism spectrum come with wide range of gifts and challenges, CEO says

robson.fletcher@metronews.ca

With the exploding popularity of wine worldwide, Calgary-based Mobility Quotient needed a new hire for its Just Wine mobile app, and it found an ideal candidate in Elizabeth, a local woman diagnosed on the autism spectrum.

The job called for someone who could scour the web, city by city, for wine-related events, pick out the most interesting ones and compile the data to populate the app's front end with up-to-date information for users around the globe.

Company flourishing

CEO Garth Johnson said Meticulon — currently a sub-project of Autism Calgary — is well on its way to becoming a financially self-sustaining company, with more than $200,000 in revenues expected in its first year.

"Attention to detail is paramount," company CEO Nikhil Sonpal said of the time-consuming task.

Elizabeth took over the role from executive assistant Amber Harlal on April 1, and quickly more than doubled the previous output.

"In her first week, it just blew me away," Harlal said. "She finds events I could never have taken the time to find."

Elizabeth is one of four people who have now found full-time work through Meticulon, a Calgary startup that focuses on assessing, training, and job-coaching people with autism.

Candidates who make it through the rigorous testing process are then hired out as consultants.

When Meticulon formed last summer, CEO Garth Johnson primarily had software test engineering jobs in mind but quickly found swift demand from employers in a "much broader" range of fields.

"We have people coming to us saying, 'Can your people do this?'" Johnson said. "And if it fits that core description of precision and focus and attention to detail, we can make it work."

Elizabeth, who preferred not to be photographed or have her last name used in this article, said she's enjoying the job so far.

"I really like what I'm doing," she said. "I always knew that wine was big, but I didn't know how big."

Partial reopening

Bowness Park restoration on track

Parts of flood-ravaged Bowness Park remain on track to reopen by the middle of summer, something the ward councillor says would go a long way toward restoring a sense of normalcy for anxious area residents.

Parks manager Doug Marter said Thursday he's "cautiously optimistic" that enough restoration work will be complete by mid-summer for the popular recreation space to partially re-open, with a tentative full opening in the fall.

"It's really dependent on weather right now," Marter said. "The late spring has really delayed a lot of things. We pretty much lost all of May between snow and rain and whatnot. We're trying to move as quickly as we can."

Coun. Ward Sutherland said the sooner Calgarians can use Bowness Park again, the better.

"The community has been patiently rubbing their hands, waiting for it to open," he said. "It's one of the most well-used parks in Calgary."

Anxiety levels are high as the anniversary of the late-June flood approaches, Sutherland added, and re-opening the park would help people "get back to some of the routines" around the river that come with happier memories.

Wildrose pledges $1.2B for light rail

Wildrose leader Danielle Smith
METRO FILE

The Wildrose Party is pledging more money for light-rail transit in Calgary and Edmonton if they are elected.

The party announced its transit platform on Thursday and promised to commit $1.2 billion over four years for LRT expansion in both cities.

"Wildrose believes LRT expansion in our two major cities is absolutely critical to our future economic prosperity and reducing our environmental impact, and that's why we've made this commitment in writing today," party leader Danielle Smith said in a release.

The party is proposing to pay for the extra funds through surpluses they believe can be created if the government better watches the bottom line.

Smith said the plan would amount to about $50 million a year more for Calgary and Edmonton than they are in line to receive under current funding arrangements.

Transit advocate Doug Hayden called it "refreshing news," citing the worsening traffic woes in the city's southeast quadrant, where a new light-rail line is slated to go in two or three decades.

"It's good that it's become a topic," said Hayden, co-leader of the grassroots LRTon-TheGreen group. METRO

Calgary Flames president of hockey operations Brian Burke speaks to the media in Flames boss big business

Question and Answer.
President speaks on TV
timeouts, human error,
need for a new arena

BRYAN

bryan.weismiller@metronews.ca

He's a booster for "big and ugly" hockey, a free-speaking sports executive and vocal supporter of LGBT rights.

Brian Burke, president of hockey operations for the Calgary Flames, spoke about the business of Canada's favourite game over breakfast on Friday.

Here are three highlights from his question-and-answer session with a Calgary Chamber of Commerce crowd.

On TV timeouts and allegations they "kill the momentum of the game":

"They're great.... When they first came in, it was like they let the air out of the building every time (they did) it. But now our fans are smart — that's when they get their beer and run to the bathroom. You see they all know when it's coming and they scurry up the aisle. I think they're very strategic for people

Continuing care a

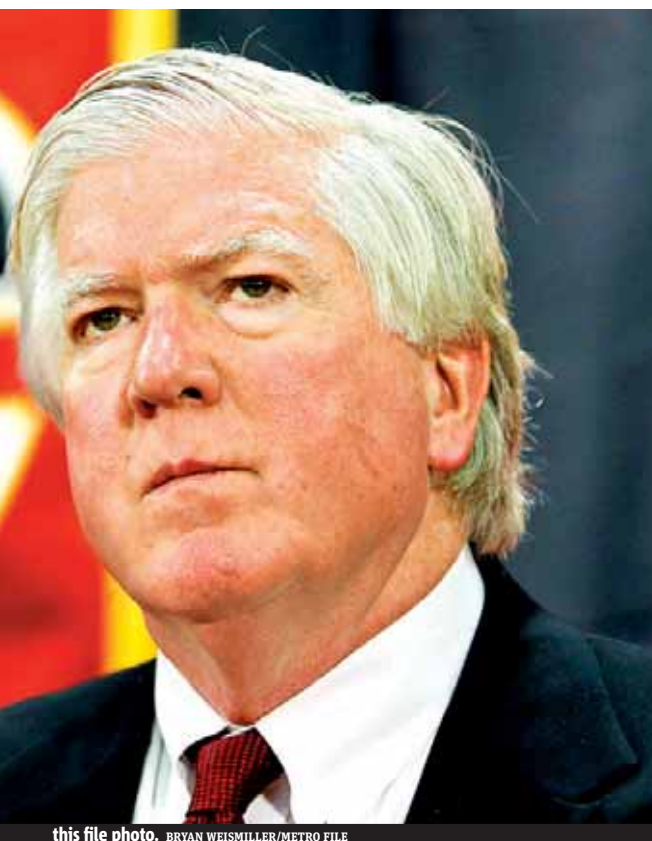

There is confusion, duplication and questions over who's accountable for what in Alberta's continuing care system, the province's health watchdog reported Thursday.

Charlene McBrien-Morrison, executive director of the Health Quality Council of Alberta, told a news conference in Calgary that there is confusion not only among the providers, but within them as well.

"Quality and safety management in continuing care lacks clarity in roles, responsibilities, and accountabilities among the Ministry of Health, Alberta Health Services and contracted providers," said McBrien-Morrison.

"Within Alberta Health Services alone there is a similar lack of clarity regarding roles and responsibilities in continuing care."

Burke talks at breakfast who like to drink at games. We're not allowed to."

On his philosophy of running a hockey team like a business:

"I want you to think I'm spending your money wisely if you're a season-ticket holder. You look at mistakes we make: you pay guys big money and they end up in minors. That drives people crazy because it's YOUR money.... We try to avoid those mistakes.

"Because it's a human-being business — we're not buying cars, we're not buying piping for an oil rig, we're buying human beings and betting on them — you're going to make mistakes."

On the city's need for a new arena:

"We have the finest, state-of-the-art, 1988 building in the league.... A building has to ... generate NHL economics, which our building does not....

It's not just what a hockey team gets, it's what it does to a downtown core. We need a new building in Calgary. There's absolutely no reason we should be watching a new building go up in Edmonton and we've got to play in a 1988 building here. I think it's coming, (but) it's way above my pay-grade."

mess: Watchdog

She spelled out problems in a number of areas, starting with no standardized system for handing out contracts to service providers.

She said the current audit system needs work.

"There are duplication of auditing processes, audits and standards often overlap or address the same issues, and there are many, many types of audits," she said.

She said the system is also hampered by a crazy quilt of multiple surveys and questionnaires to gauge feedback from those who use the system.

There is also no centralized system to record and track safety issues, she said.

Health Minister Fred Horne, at a news conference in Edmonton, said he accepts all the recommendations and has begun acting on them. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Preserving status quo for teacher discipline 'not an option': Minister

Leaving the discipline of teachers to a union-run hearing committee is "not an option," says Alberta's education minister.

"Not if we want to put kids at the top of our criteria," added Jeff Johnson in an interview this week. "The protection of our children, it's not working as well as it needs to."

Those comments indicated

he was unfazed by teachers accusing him of undermining the profession by openly criticizing findings of an Alberta Teachers' Association (ATA) hearing committee, which vouched for suspensions for educators guilty of sex- and violence-related infractions against students.

In a handful of cases, including one in which a teacher instructed a student to masturbate in the shower and then describe the details to him online, Johnson overruled the committee and cancelled the guilty party's certificate.

Johnson noted that the public has until June 15 to weigh in on the recommendations of a government-created teacher task force, which recommended removing disciplinary powers from the ATA.

The ATA is also drafting a response, according to spokesperson Jonathan Teghtmeyer. But he said Thursday it's tough to have a conversation when Johnson "has irresponsibly and intentionally undermined confidence in the association."

Inspiration. Olympian challenges school to 'get your own gold medals'

An entire school had a golden twinkle in their eyes on Thursday as Olympic Athletes visited Calgary to inspire the children to be the best they can be.

Students, parents, and teachers of the William Reid School were treated to a special event when Olympians Jean-Philippe Le Guellec and Dara Howell visited their school for the afternoon.

The event was part of the Celebration of Excellence Heroes Tour, which honoured coaches and athletes that participated in Olympic and Paralympics games in Sochi.

The two athletes talked to the children, in both English and French, about the paths that each of them took in order to be able to participate in Sochi.

"My parents put me on skis at 18 months old. I loved to ski, but racing just wasn't quite what I wanted to do," said Howell, who was the first woman ever to win a gold medal in ski slopestyle.

Tour schedule

The Celebration of Excellence Heroes Tour goes until Friday and includes stops in Calgary, Red Deer, Ottawa, Edmonton, and Banff.

Howell also brought with her the gold medal she had won, in an attempt to motivate the children.

"So I want to challenge you guys to go out and get your own gold medals. Whether it be in sports, or academics, or arts, or drama, or music. If you guys are passionate about something and you guys love to do something, then go and do that," she said.

Many of the students found themselves inspired by the words of the athletes, wanting to become Olympians themselves. "Now I really want a gold medal," said student Ryann Perrett.

DOES NOBODY SEE THAT SHATNER ISN'T THE MAN?

IN DEFENCE OF
Mike Morrison
calgary@metronews.ca

This week, I feel like I'm a lone wolf.

As the city celebrated the fact that William Shatner was announced as this year's Stampede parade marshal, I felt alone. Alone because I was left to solemnly wander Stephen Avenue wondering to myself: Why?

The problem with having William Shatner as Stampede parade marshal is that it doesn't really make sense. He's not a Calgarian and he hasn't done anything significant in years. Meanwhile, this year's honorary parade marshals, Gilmore Junio and Denny Morrison, were Olympic heroes. But who was prominently featured in every media outlet (even Metro) the day after the announcement? Captain Kirk.

Other years, sure, I probably wouldn't mind. But this year? This year, we have a lot to celebrate. From our all-too-often ignored Olympians to the countless Calgarians and businesses who've recovered so unflinchingly from last year's flood, the pool of potential marshals was limitless. And before you ask, no, I have no relation to Denny Morrison. Although at parties, I do tell everyone that we're cousins.

Speaking of lying to oneself, it just seems that inviting William Shatner to be the parade marshal is like when I tried to throw parties in high school and, to seem cool, I would always invite all the older kids. It never worked because no one ever came. But that's where Stampede is different. It doesn't matter who the parade marshal is, hundreds of thousands of people come to the parade because it's the Stampede Parade.

(OK, the people who sit at the intersection of 5 Street and 9 Avenue come to play Horse Poop Bingo, but the rest of us are there to kick off Stampede. They don't really care who the parade marshal is.)

Is William Shatner the worst Stampede marshal we've ever had? Absolutely not. That honour goes to brothers Jet and Cord McCoy, the Texan cowboys who finished second place on the 16th season of the Amazing Race. Not only were they not Canadian, they didn't even win the Amazing Race. Anyone that was not asked to be the marshal that year should have been personally insulted. Anyone.

Of course it's easy to play woulda, coulda, shoulda. I'm not planning a parade watched by millions of people from across the country.

Well, I think the Olympians would have been a fantastic choice. The town of High River would have also been an excellent choice, or we could gather dozens of children to represent the thousands of Calgarians who helped the city recover just a year ago.

It just seems funny to me that the Calgary Stampede thinks it needs people like William Shatner to make their event exciting.

But, like my mom always said after every failed party, "Maybe next year."

Starved and abused. Crown wants up to 20 years for father of twins

A Crown prosecutor says an Edmonton man whose twin toddlers were starved and abused before one of them died in hospital should serve 18 to 20 years in prison.

The prosecutor made the recommendation before showing a judge photos of the emaciated, bruised bodies of the two-year-old girls.

Their father, who cannot be named, pleaded guilty earlier this year to manslaughter, aggravated assault and failing to provide the necessities of life.

Paramedics called to the family's home in 2012 found the girls, who were no bigger than six-month-old babies, strapped in infant car seats.

The father has admitted that while he didn't physically hurt the children, he knew they were starving and suffering.

Crown prosecutor Shelley Bykewich called the circumstances "unfathomable," and asked the judge to sentence the father to between 18 and 20 years in prison.

"They should have been

Background

Court heard previously the two-year-old girls had been deprived of food and were severely malnourished.

- The twins' parents fought for several months in court to keep one of the girls, known as M, on life support.
- Two Alberta courts agreed the girl should be taken off machines on the evidence of doctors.
- The surviving girl was placed in foster care.

able to rely on their father to protect, nurture, feed and love them," Bykewich argued.

"Starvation of the twins was a choice."

The accused's wife still faces charges, including second-degree murder, but no trial date has been set. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Secondary suites. Motion delayed

Inner-city councillors are delaying a plan to legalize secondary suites in their wards and near transit in the rest of the city.

The motion was set to be heard at Monday's city council meeting but Coun. Druh Farrell, who is leading the initiative, said Thursday she's now decided to put that off until September.

"It's important that we're successful and many of my colleagues have asked for more time to consult with their communities," Farrell said.

The motion calls for secondary suites to be generally permitted in all of Wards 7, 8, 9 and 11, and within 600 metres of "major transit routes" in other parts of the city.

Farrell said she and the other inner-city councillors who signed the motion remain "ready to move forward," but councillors in other wards had concerns about the 600-metre radius. ROBSON FLETCHER/METRO

Alberta to lease caribou habitat

Alberta plans to keep leasing undisturbed remnants of endangered mountain caribou habitat to energy developers, even though Ottawa has just released a plan saying the land must be restored, not exploited.

Another 500 hectares in northwestern Alberta is to go on the auction block Wednesday from the range of the Redrock-Prairie Creek herd range north of Grande Cache, Alta. Federal scientists consider the herd in imminent danger of disappearing.

Alberta Energy Minister Diana McQueen said caribou are protected under current rules, including the timing of industrial activity to avoid calving and migration.

Herd of mountain caribou have lost 60 per cent of their numbers over the last decade.

Baby kidnapping. Accused woman, 21, deemed fit to stand trial

Report from doctor.

Accused woman's lawyer asks court to recommend she have access to mental-health specialists

A woman accused of kidnapping a newborn baby from a Quebec maternity ward has been declared fit to stand trial.

Valerie Poulin Collins will now head to a detention centre until her next court date on June 18.

A judge heard Thursday that a doctor has declared the 21-year-old fit after observing her over several days in hospital.

Police arrested Poulin Collins outside her home in Trois-Rivieres on May 26, about three hours after a woman posing as a nurse snatched a 16-hour-old infant from a local hospital.

The baby girl was returned to her parents unharmed.

Officers were able to find Poulin Collins with the help of locals who recognized her from a surveillance video still sent out with an Amber Alert.

Poulin Collins faces two charges: one of kidnapping and one of abducting a person under 14 years old.

The abduction charge carries a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison while kidnapping draws a sentence ranging from five years to life.

Her lawyer, Karine Bussiere, suggested to the court that her client have access to mental-health specialists while detained.

"We have information (in the report) that led us to believe she had a problem at this level," Bussiere told reporters.

"So I asked the judge to recommend that she has access to the appropriate services." THE CANADIAN PRESS

'I just want this to be over'

Will Njoku said, via Twitter, "I just want this to be over," as he and hundreds of residents were waiting for police to find the man suspected of having shot and killed three RCMP officers.

Njoku spoke with media outlets from his home in Moncton following the shooting Wednesday night, sharing his experience as helicopters flew overhead and police searched the neighbourhood for any sign of the gunman.

"I just want this to be over for all of us.... Worried for my neighbors," Njoku tweeted Wednesday.

Around 11:30 a.m. Thursday, Njoku said via Twitter he and his family had spent the night in their basement, then moved upstairs and locked themselves in a bathroom.

"Taking no chances," he tweeted.

A former Yarmouth County woman living in Moncton was also on lockdown, and said there will forever be a sense of "innocence lost" in the city her family calls home.

Audrey Vaughan, who lives in Moncton with her husband, Jim, and their son Jimmy told the Yarmouth Vanguard Thursday morning no one had gotten much sleep.

"There's just so many little patches of wooded areas and green space, and (Bourque) knows the area, he's from here. Any little noise and you're looking out the window," she said.

Vaughan said Moncton is "just not going to look the same again," adding: "That's the hard part. He's taken away something from all of us," she said.

Moncton suspect

RCMP shootings.

Police from across Canada were brought in to help track down 24-year-old suspected shooter Justin Bourque ference.

Brown appealed for public calm in a city that had been under a virtual siege since Wednesday evening.

"This is a very, very dangerous situation," he said.

Officers were unable to confirm the identity of the suspect on two other occasions when he might have been sighted on Thursday, Supt. Marlene Snowman said.

Police including tactical officers began their manhunt for the shooter Wednesday at around 7:30 p.m. when they responded to a call about a man walking along a road with what was believed to be a gun.

After the call, shots were fired and officers called for backup, Snowman said.

Brown said police officers from across the country had been brought in to help arrest the suspect.

"The RCMP family is hurting," he said. "Greater Moncton is hurting as is New Brunswick as is our country."

Police had urged people with any information on Bourque's whereabouts to call 911. The Moncton man

The RCMP say they have arrested the suspect in a shooting in Moncton, N.B., that has left three Mounties dead and two others injured.

Paul Greene, a spokesman with the RCMP, says Justin Bourque was arrested at around 12:30 a.m. Friday.

A nerve-racking search for the heavily armed gunman had been underway throughout Thursday in Moncton, nearly a full day after he allegedly shot three New Brunswick Mounties dead and injured two others in one of the worst mass shootings in the RCMP's history.

"This is working through your worst nightmare," Assistant Commissioner Roger Brown, the Mounties' commanding officer in New Brunswick, told a news con-three RCMP officers were killed and two injured by a gunman.

Bourque's new radical remake

Two stark and contrasting portraits are emerging of the man suspected of killing three Mounties and injuring two others in a heavily armed rampage Wednesday night.

One was the highly intelligent, laid-back guitar enthusiast known to friends who grew up alongside 24-year-old Justin Bourque in suburban Moncton.

The other was a radical, angry remake of a man obsessed with gun rights, angered by police and fixated on global conflicts going on half a world away.

"It was almost like a complete 180 for him," friend and former workmate Trevor Finck said. "There was a pretty stark difference."

The new Bourque — the one dressed in army fatigues and toting two high-powered guns — then became the subject of an intense police manhunt that ended early Friday.

Those who know Bourque are not particularly surprised that he evaded his hunters so long. One acquaintance who spoke to Torstar News Service on condition of anonymity described Bourque as someone with "lots of tactical knowledge."

Bourque has had a long enthusiasm for guns, and even before Wednesday night's shooting was often seen dressed in camouflage military fatigues.

The acquaintance, like others, is shocked by what Bourque is alleged to have done. Up until now, he had left the impression of a nice, friendly guy.

"Nobody expected this."

Quoted

"Never in my darkest dreams did I ever think that we would be facing what we're facing today in Moncton. Moncton has always been a special community. If this can happen in Moncton, it can happen anywhere." Moncton Mayor George LeBlanc was wearing military camouflage and carrying two rifles in a picture of him released by police on Twitter on Wednesday night.

Snowman said Bourque had been carrying high-powered firearms, is not known to the police and investigators were trying to piece together his background.

Residents in the area where police searched had been urged to stay inside and lock their doors.

Police had also warned people to expect roadblocks and traffic disruptions. Schools and government offices were closed, buses were pulled off the roads and surgeries at the Moncton Hospital were cancelled.

Brown said the two wounded officers underwent surgery in hospital Thursday. Cpl. Chantal Farrah later said that one of those officers was released. The injuries suffered by the other officer were not considered life-threatening.

Brown said he met with the families of the officers who were shot earlier in the day.

The identities of the officers who were shot have not been released by police.

But late Thursday, the National Post identified one of the officers fatally shot as Const. Dave Ross, a police services dog handler with the RCMP. The newspaper quoted the sister-in-law of the man's wife as saying he had a young son, with another child expected in September.

Accused in 'honour killing' appeal extradition to India

Extradition order.

The mother and uncle of a B.C. woman murdered in India remain in custody pending their appeal

The mother and uncle of a young British Columbia woman murdered in a so-called "honour killing" are appealing their extradition to face charges in her death.

A B.C. Supreme Court judge ordered the surrender last month of Malkit Sidhu and Surjit Badesha to police in India, after finding there was enough evidence for the brother and sister from Maple Ridge, B.C., to face trial.

Both 65-year-old Sidhu and 69-year-old Badesha filed leave to appeal with the B.C. Appeal Court this week.

Jaswinder (Jassi) Sidhu and her husband, Sukhwinder Singh Sidhu. Police say Jassi's mother in Canada plotted to have her killed after Jassi married in India without her family's permission. FAMILY PHOTO/THE CANADIAN PRESS

They are appealing on several grounds, including that the judge erred in finding there was sufficient evidence to commit them to trial. "The extradition judge erred in law by admitting into the proceedings certain hearsay evidence and failing to admit other hearsay evidence," Sidhu's lawyer, David Crossin said in documents. Jaswinder (Jassi) Sidhu was kidnapped in 2000 in the Punjab. The 25-year-old was found dead the next day. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Study. Nuke accident won't increase most cancers: Report

A severe accident at a nuclear power plant — one that releases a large amount of radiation beyond the plant — wouldn't measurably increase the risk of most cancers, says a draft federal report.

The exception is childhood thyroid cancer, says the draft report by the Canadian Nuclear Safety Commission.

It has been released for public comment. The report modelled several severe accidents at the Darlington nuclear station in Ontario.

"From a human health perspective, none of the scenarios showed a detectable increase in risk for three of the four types of cancer examined: All cancers combined, leukemia and adult thyroid cancer," the report says. The report says the risk of developing childhood thyroid cancer would rise by 0.3 per cent at a distance of 12 km.

Israel defiant, plans to build new homes in captured territory

Controversial construction. Approval to build 1,500 new homes 'just the beginning,' says Israel's housing minister Israel gave the final go-ahead Thursday to build nearly 1,500 homes in the West Bank and east Jerusalem, saying the construction was a response to the formation of the Palestinian unity government backed by the Islamic militant group Hamas.

The move triggered international criticism and deepened a rift between Israel and its Western allies. With Israel outraged at the world's embrace of the unity government, Israel's housing minister said the new construction was "just the beginning."

Israel has been sparring with its allies in Washington and Europe since Western-backed Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas swore in the unity government Monday.

Israel has asked the world to shun the new government because it is backed by Hamas, which has killed hundreds of Israelis in suicide bombings and other attacks in the past two decades. The European Union and the United States, along with Israel, consider Hamas a terrorist group.

Abbas says Hamas plays no formal role in the government. His new cabinet consists of technocrats who have accepted international demands to renounce violence and accept Israel's right to exist.

Harper and Obama oppose Putin sitdown

Not Allies at the moment. Heads of U.K., France and Germany to discuss Ukraine with Putin on D-Day anniversary

Prime Minister Stephen Harper joined U.S. President Barack Obama in opposing the plans of some G7 leaders to meet Russian President Vladimir Putin this week, The Canadian Press has learned.

During two days of closed-door G7 leaders' talks in Brussels, Harper and Obama were firmly aligned against the plans of several fellow leaders to sit down with Putin, a source close to the talks said Thursday.

Harper has consistently urged other countries and Canadian businesses to actively isolate Putin on the world stage.

France invited Putin to Friday's commemoration in Normandy to mark the 70th anniversary of the D-Day invasion, which began the liberation of Europe from the Nazis.

Putin's imminent arrival has exposed cracks in an otherwise united G7 front that produced a public declaration denouncing his annexation of Crimea and provocations in eastern Ukraine.

British Prime Minister David Cameron, French President Francois Hollande and German Chancellor Angela Merkel are to meet Putin this week and engage him on the Ukraine crisis.

Hollande and Cameron both were to meet Putin on Thursday in Paris, according to Russia's ITAR-TASS news agency. His meeting with Merkel is to come in the Deauville, France, on Friday.

Hollande has mused that the Normandy setting might be conducive to a positive meeting between Putin and Ukraine president-elect Petro Poroshenko on Friday.

Behind closed doors, Harper and Obama were united in making it "crystal clear" that they had no intention of meeting Putin, said the source, speaking on condition of anonymity about matters that hadn't been publicly disclosed.

Harper and Obama also expressed the view that it was "not ideal" for other leaders to meet him, but if they did, the main message should be a direct, agreed denunciation of Putin's actions on behalf of the entire G7, the source said.

Ongoing defence deal between France and Russia troubles Obama

U.S. President Barack Obama says he's expressed concern to France about its intentions to keep building warships for Russia at the same time that Europe and the U.S. are trying to isolate Russia over the crisis in Ukraine.

Obama was speaking at a news conference hours before a dinner with French President Francois Hollande.

Obama said he recognizes the three-year-old deal is large and important for French jobs. But he says it would have been preferable for France to pause defence deals while Russia is violating international law and the sovereignty of its neighbours.

Government approves pension extension for some elderly Jews

Germany's Parliament on Thursday approved a measure extending pension payments totalling nearly a half-billion dollars for thousands of elderly Jews who were forced to work for the Nazis in ghettos.

The Conference on Jewish Material Claims Against Germany, which helped negotiate the deal with the German government, said the agreement means some 40,000 Holocaust survivors, used by the Nazis in ghettos as labourers in exchange for food or meagre wages, will receive additional benefits.

Under the new measure, all people qualifying for the pensions can have them backdated to 1997.

NuvaRing

Settlement reached in lawsuits over potentially fatal birth control

A $100-million settlement involving NuvaRing, a birth-control device linked to sometimes fatal side effects, will stand now that enough claimants have chosen to opt into the agreement.

U.S. District Judge Rodney W. Sippel of St. Louis approved the settlement in February, but NuvaRing maker Merck & Co. had the right to abandon the deal if less than 95 per cent of claimants opted in.

The lawsuits allege faulty design and testing, and claim that potential hazards of the device were not adequately disclosed. Merck says there is "substantial" evidence to show that NuvaRing is safe.

Woman charged after baby left alone in middle of street

A 23-year-old Manitoba woman has been charged after a baby was found in a stroller in the middle of a street.

Police in Brandon say the seven-month-old girl was found at about 3 a.m.

on Thursday.

The mother was found a few blocks away, and allegedly told officers that she was high on pills and forgot that her daughter was with her.

The baby was taken to hospital before being turned over to Child and Family Services.

The woman has been released from custody and is to appear in court on July 31 on a charge of abandoning a child. THE CANADIAN PRESS/CKLQ

Relatives of convicted man and some relatives of victims believe the late Abdel Baset al-Megrahi was innocent

The family of the only person convicted in the Lockerbie bombing joined relatives of the attack's victims Thursday in demanding a fresh effort to overturn his murder conviction for the 1988 bombing of Pan Am Flight 103.

Former Libyan intelligence agent Abdel Baset al-Megrahi long protested his innocence in the attack that killed 270 people, many of them Americans. But he dropped his appeal to clear the path for his early release on compassionate grounds. He died two years ago.

Certain that the truth has not yet emerged, two dozen British families applied to the Scottish Criminal Cases Review Commission to take a fresh look. Jim Swire, a leading voice for some of the British families, believes al-Megrahi was innocent.

"If you had a daughter aged 23 who was both beautiful and highly intelligent, and she was brutally murdered in a situation where it's clear that the national protection security services had abysmally failed, do you not think that even 25 years later you might want to feel that you had a status in discovering the truth about who murdered her and why she was not protected?" Swire said.

The families say the appeal is based in part on new evidence suggesting that al-Megrahi was pressured to drop his appeal. Though governments in London and Edinburgh have denied it, accusations have long swirled that London sought his release to protect business interests in oil-rich Libya.

Leaked U.S. diplomatic memos showed Tripoli had warned that if al-Megrahi died in a Scottish prison, all British commercial activity in Libya would be cut off.

The bomb blew up the New York-bound Boeing 747 flew over the Scottish town of Lockerbie on Dec. 21, 1988. Many of the victims were American college students flying home for Christmas.

Boko Haram extremists reportedly massacre 200 Nigerian villagers

Military inaction?

A community leader said residents pleaded with local government to send soldiers

Boko Haram militants dressed as soldiers killed at least 200 civilians in three villages in northeastern Nigeria and the military failed to intervene even though it was warned that an attack was imminent, witnesses said on Thursday.

A community leader who witnessed the killings on Monday said residents of the Gwoza local government district in Borno state had pleaded for the military to send soldiers to protect the area after they heard that militants were about to attack, but help didn't arrive. The killings occurred in Danjara, Agapalwa and Antagara.

"We all thought they were the soldiers that we earlier reported to that the insurgents might attack us," said a community leader who escaped the massacre and fled to Maiduguri, Borno's state capital.

The militants arrived in Toyota Hilux pickup trucks commonly used by the military — and told the civilians they were soldiers "and we are here to protect you all," the same tactic used by the group when they kidnapped more than 300 girls from a school in the town of Chibok on April 15.

After people gathered in the centre on the orders of the militants, "they begin to shout 'Allahu Akbar, Allahu Akbar' on top of their voices, then they

Death toll mounts

Thousands have been killed in the five-year Boko Haram insurgency.

- More than 2,000 Nigerians have been killed so far this year.

begin to fire at the people continuously for a very long time until all that gathered were all dead," said the witness, who did not want to be named.

The slaughter was confirmed by both Mohammed Ali Ndume, a senator representing Borno and whose hometown is Gwoza, and by a top security official in Maiduguri who insisted on anonymity because he isn't allowed to speak to the media.

It took a few days for word of the massacres to reach Maiduguri because travel on the roads is dangerous and phone connections are poor or nonexistent.

The community leader wasn't shot because "I was going round to inform people that the soldiers had come and they wanted to address us," he said. As people were fleeing, other gunmen lurked outside the villages on motorcycles and mowed them down, he said.

The villages attacked on Monday are in the Gwoza local government, a regional political centre whose emir was killed in a Boko Haram ambush last week. Emirs are religious and traditional rulers who have been targeted for speaking out against Boko Haram's extremism. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One dead. Student disarms lone gunman in Seattle campus shooting

A lone gunman armed with a shotgun opened fire Thursday in a building at a small Seattle university, fatally wounding one person before a student subdued him with pepper spray as he tried to reload, Seattle police said.

A student building monitor at Seattle Pacific University disarmed the gunman after he entered the foyer at Otto Miller Hall, and several other students jumped on top of him and pinned him down until police officers arrived, police said.

A 19-year-old man died at Harborview Medical Center. Three other people were injured. A critically injured 20-year-old woman was taken to surgery, hospital spokeswoman Susan Gregg said.

A 24-year-old man and a 22-year-old man were in satisfactory condition. Gregg says one of those two men was not shot.

None of the victims was immediately identified.

Police said they had arrested one man. None of the four who were brought to the hospital was the arrested man, Gregg said.

Police initially reported that they were searching for a second suspect. They later said no one else was involved.

Kawaii overload with debut of Pepper the robot

Will sell for $1,900 US.

Japanese billionaire kicked the 'kawaii,' or cute culture, up a notch with humanoid robot

A cooing, gesturing humanoid on wheels that can decipher emotions has been unveiled in Japan by billionaire Masayoshi Son who says robots should be tender and make people smile.

Son's mobile phone company Softbank said Thursday that the robot it has dubbed Pepper will go on sale in Japan in February for $1,900 US. Overseas sales plans are under consideration but undecided.

The machine, which has no legs, but has gently gesticulating hands appeared on a stage in a Tokyo suburb, cooing and humming. It dramatically touched hands with Son in a Genesis or E.T. moment.

Son, who told the crowd that his longtime dream was to go into the personal robot business, said Pepper has been programmed to read the emotions of people around it by recognizing expressions and voice tones.

"Our aim is to develop affectionate robots that can make people smile," he said.

Cute robots are not new in Japan, a nation dominated by "kawaii," or cute culture, but no companion robot has emerged as a major market success yet.

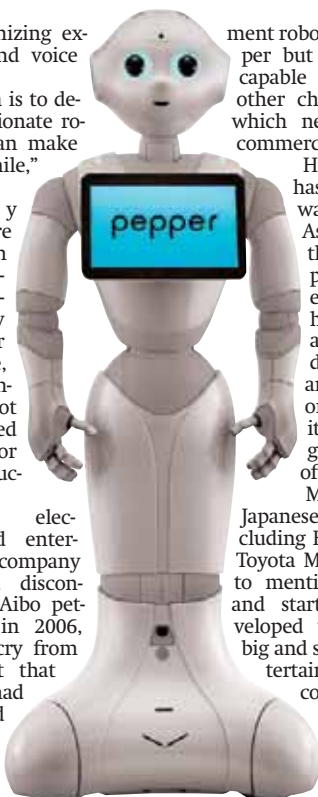

Japanese electronics and entertainment company Sony Corp. discontinued the Aibo pet-dog robot in 2006, despite outcry from its fans. At that time, Sony had developed a child-shaped entertainment robot similar to Pepper but much smaller, capable of dances and other charming moves, which never became a commercial product.

Honda Motor Co. has developed the walking, talking Asimo robot, but that is too sophisticated and expensive for home use, and appears in Honda showrooms and gala events only. Even then, it is prone to glitches because of its complexity.

Many Japanese companies, including Hitachi Ltd. and Toyota Motor Corp., not to mention universities and startups, have developed various robots, big and small, which entertain and serve as companions.

Google Street View finally comes to Greece

Google car is presented to the media in Athens on Thursday. Google has launched its Street View map service in Greece after winning approval from the privacy authority that blocked the ground-level map application five years ago. Company officials said the service went live after "extensive and detailed" negotiations with the country's Data Protection Authority, which last year lifted objections made to the project in 2009. Culture Minister Panos Panagiotopoulos attended a launch event in Athens and said the map service would help the crisis-hit country's vital tourism industry, describing Greece as an "endless archaeological park." THANASSIS STAVRAKIS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Booze consumption under-reported

Study. People reported about one-third of their alcohol consumption, a University of Victoria study found

It turns out Canadians lowball the amount of alcohol they consume by up to 75 per cent, especially when it comes to wine.

A study by the University of Victoria's Centre for Addictions Research says surveys of alcohol consumption are crucial when it comes to estimating disease and injury caused by people's favourite recreational drug.

But the centre's director, Tim Stockwell, says it's easier for society to ignore the risks associated with alcohol consumption when policies are based on a gross underestimation of how much people actually drink.

The study published in the journal Addiction includes three years of data from daily Health Canada phone surveys of 45,000 people across the country between 2008 and 2012.

Stockwell says Canadians were asked how many drinks they'd had over the last week, the last month, the last year and then the day before — a question that provided the most accurate amount based on memory.

He says the results showed that people reported only about one-third of their consumption when the amounts were compared to how much alcohol was actually sold every year — 8.2 litres of pure alcohol per person aged 15 and over in actual sales to Canadians.

THE HATZ ON THE CATZ

1 Eugénie Bouchard. Canada has fallen in love with this 20 year old from Quebec, who lost a hard-fought battle in the French Open semis against Maria Sharapova — the second straight Grand Slam she's advanced this far. Bouchard is a social media darling with more than 500,000 fans on Facebook and 150,000 on Twitter, and even tweeted a picture of herself with Owen Wilson at Roland Garros. A star is born.

2 William Shatner. In an announcement made on YouTube, the iconic actor was named as parade marshal for this year's Calgary Stampede. Previous marshals have included Chris Hadfield and Rick Hansen. The Stampede takes place July 4, and I'm hoping to find a teleportation machine to beam myself there so I can see Captain Kirk in person.

3 Movember. The Movember Foundation has launched the Canadian Men's Health and Wellbeing Innovation Challenge. This grassroots funding opportunity allows Canadians to submit innovative ideas regarding men's health — and help men take action with their health. Deadline is June 26. Go to movember.com for details.

4 Game of Thrones Finale Theatric. HBO Canada and Cineplex have teamed up to offer Game of Thrones fans quite the treat: In 29 select theatres across Ontario, Quebec and Atlantic Canada, fans can watch the Season 4 finale June 15 at 9 p.m. on the big screen with fellow diehards. There were a lot of OMGs when this news broke on social media.

5 Denim vs. Active Wear. According to new data, sales of jeans in Canada have been on a long-term decline, partly due to the popularity of activewear. Seems "active bottoms" haven't been this hot since '80s leg warmers. I'm going to start wearing leg warmers over Lululemon yoga pants while working out to Jennifer Beals dancing to Flashdance ... What a Feeling.

6 Malcolm Gladwell. The bestselling N.Y.C.-based author (Outliers, The Tipping Point), did an Ask Me Anything this week as part of Reddit's popular AMA series. Gladwell was full of compliments for Canada, the country where he was raised — in Elmira, Ont. — and received an Order of Canada, saying, "Canadians are the nicest people in the world. Hands down." Ah geez, thanks.

7 WestJet. They've done it again, with another viral video. In this tear-jerker, it shows an amazing early Father's Day gift they gave to a hard-working dad, Marc Grimard, from Saskatoon. They surprised Marc by flying him to Edmonton to visit his sick child, Joel, who has a congenital heart condition and is staying at a Ronald McDonald House there with his mother. Beautiful and touching vid.

8 #HatzOnCatz. The hashtag went viral after teen social media star Matthew Espinosa asked his fans to send him #HatzOnCatz photos for a contest. Soon enough, people from around the world were sending silly and cute cat-in-the-hat photos. Heck, I almost bought a kitty and Tilley hat just to be part of this. But my Maltese shih tzu, Roxy, nixed that. #HatzOnDogz, she says.

2,000+ attempt Guinness record for World Environment Day

More than 2,000 people, mostly students wearing their school uniforms, gathered in Nepal's capital on Thursday in a bid to set a world record for the largest collective tree-hugging event.

Parliament members, office workers and even Buddhist monks also took part in the attempt, joining the students at a park on the outskirts of Kathmandu.

Let's celebrate the glorious day that is Friday.

You're almost there, free of your desk, never-ending emails and the dreaded copy machine. The world — or weekend — is your oyster. Head to the beach! Run around, get sand stuck in your paws and let your tail wag.

Wait, that's just this dog.

Well, take a cue from Ellie the Great Dane anyway, and let loose! Feel the wind in your fur, or rather, hair.

Future flick Edge of Tomorrow puts time on Cruise control

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Clever and entertaining. But unlike his character, Cruise's latest film doesn't have the ability to re-do its more lacklustre moments

Richard: Mark, two thirds of Edge of Tomorrow is as un-Cruise-like a movie as Tom has ever made. The Groundhog Day been-there, done-that section of the film is inventive, often played for laughs and presents Cruise in a way we've rarely ever seen him — as a coward. It's a refreshing twist for him and gives him a chance to exercise his rarely used comedic chops. You know he's going to turn heroic sooner or later, but it's a blast to see him do something just outside his usual wheelhouse.

Emily Blunt and Tom Cruise star in the time-travelling sci-fi thriller Edge of Tomorrow. CONTRIBUTED

Mark: Richard, I enjoyed his cowardly weasel schtick as much as you. I didn't find the Groundhog Day type plot as inventive, though — it's been done in other movies like Source Code and About Time, but the mashup with Starship Troopers was different. The problem I had was that the necessary repetitiveness became inevitably boring after a while, and I felt like I was watching someone slowly get very good at a violent video game.

RC: It does rely a bit too heavily on video game-style violence at the end, but I have to disagree with you on the repetitiveness of the time loop. I thought director Doug Liman figured out clever and entertaining ways to show the same thing over and over, keeping it exciting with interesting editing and changing perspectives. The first two reels are packed with energy and invention. It's only when the conventions that made the story enticing are put aside in the last reel that the movie becomes a standard Cruise action flick. A good Cruise action flick but still more standard than the promising first hour.

MB: Cruise has been in some dogs lately, but this isn't one of them. And normally I would have dismissed the last third as too conventional, but at least it's the only part of the movie that puts Cruise and the viewer on the same level — neither knows what's going to happen next. I just found the time-loop a bit boring, which I also felt in Groundhog Day. I'm in the minority here, Richard, and I know it. What did you think of Emily Blunt?

RC: I'm a fan, but this is something different for her, and for action movies in general. Big budget blockbusters don't usually make room for female characters unless they are side-kicks or girlfriends. Here Blunt avoids being objectified and is as strong, if not stronger than Cruise.

MB: I also liked Bill Paxton. Even liked watching him do the same dialogue again and again, but with a growing sense of befuddlement and disassociation as the scenes progress.

Synopsis

Set at the height of a worldwide battle between the human race and seemingly indestructible aliens called Mimics, Tom Cruise plays William Cage, a marketing genius whose ads have inspired millions of people to enlist by telling them the story of hero Rita (Emily Blunt), a legendary warrior with more Mimic notches on her belt than the rest of the army combined. When pressed into combat, something strange happens. Cage gets caught in a time loop, reliving the same day over and over. Eventually he'll learn enough to beat this unbeatable foe. Trouble is, he has to die every day...

Wolfcop blends the fuzz with the fuzzy

Canadian director playfully shifts shape of werewolf genre.

Wolfcop trailer wows horror fans to win film-financing contest

CHRIS
scene@metronews.ca

How's this for high concept: Alcoholic cop gets the bite from a beast and turns into a blood-hungry monster during the full moon and ultimately becomes a better officer in the process. That's the bizarre gist of Wolfcop, a riotous Canadian romp from writer/director Lowell Dean, a Saskatchewan-reared filmmaker whose gonzo sensibilities suit the hirsute story sublimely.

"We didn't want to do something derivative," Dean told Metro last week.

"At the same time, we had to make a movie within the constraints of our low budget. So we just tried to think of what we haven't seen on screen in any werewolf movie in a while. The touchstone film for me is An American Werewolf in London and there's plenty of its DNA in Wolfcop."

Certainly, the playful yet gory push and pull that drives Wolfcop hearkens back to John Landis' immortal 1981 classic, but when it comes to Dean's werewolf, the transformation makes Rick Baker's award-winning FX designs seem like mere growing pains. No, when Wolfcop's cursed lawman Lou Garou (Leo Fafard) shifts shape, it's gleefully revolting, with skin splitting, bursting and slipping off to reveal the screaming monster inside. It's wild, sophisticated stuff and even wilder considering the film cost peanuts to produce.

"The film scene was shrinking in Saskatchewan as we had just lost our tax credit," notes the director of Wolfcop's challenged genesis.

"So our question was, how would we do this? The Hobo with a Shotgun trailer was very inspirational for us and like that trailer, our trailer we produced to get financing was more of a scene. Our plan was to use it to try to find rich dentists and what not, and when we came across CineCoup it was too good to be true."

CineCoup is the Cineplex steered national film-financing contest that was almost completely dictated by fan response and an elaborate voting process. And even though many observers of the contest called it for Wolfcop to win, Dean was never completely convinced.

"Even when we were in the top five, I was telling my partners we wouldn't win and just to ride with the amount of press we were getting. I really had no idea."

Wolfcop has been getting international buzz and recently made the cover of Canadian horror bible Rue Morgue. Advance reviews are glowing and many are calling Dean a horror hero. But now that the blood has dried and the film is on the cusp of release, the question begs, what's next Mr. Dean?

"Why, Wolfcop 2, of course!"

Of course.

Ayoade on The Double and why twice is so nice

Take two. The Double director delves into Dostoyevsky and the duality of an office drone's dreary days

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Director Richard Ayoade follows up his acerbic teen indie debut Submarine with something completely different: The clever, inventive and highly stylized The Double, starring a pair of Jesse Eisenbergs and Mia Wasikowska as the object of their affection in a story based on Fyodor Dostoyevsky's novel. And that's not the only highbrow influence involved.

Friends keep asking me if The Double is anything like Submarine, but it's quite different, isn't it?

With Submarine, the idea of how it was filmed came from what it was about, really, and with this it would be someone who would imagine themselves in a certain esthetic. This [character] felt like someone needed to exist in a certain environment to feel this, and that environment should represent their feelings more. You know that painter Giorgio de Chirico? He was a symbolist painter and created these odd landscapes that came more out of dreams and nightmares. More that kind of a world, where you have something that's impossible but creates an emotion, like having a building that looks like it's night but with sunlight around it it creates a feeling that could not exist realistically or represent something in reality.

You've also got a pretty horrifying bureaucracy on display here.

Yes, which doesn't exist in modern times anymore. In the book you feel the oppressiveness of class and those things, and we didn't feel that we wanted to get into class considerations because it didn't feel necessary to the psychology of loneliness, in a way. That doesn't feel like it need be socioeconomic only. And so it felt better to create something where someone could be oppressed by their job, whereas now the idea of someone taking their job seriously seems absurd because in any film if someone's working in an office you know that is their dreary reality and the repository of their dreams lies somewhere else, and the office is the epitome of that. It's like a metaphor for frustration, somehow.

How was it directing two distinct Jesse Eisenberg performances?

Really, as silly as it sounds, it just takes longer because you have to rehearse everything twice. So you rehearse as one character once then rehearse as the other character, but probably as a result you go through the scenes much more carefully than you ordinarily would. And the other thing that's tricky is you never see it. You will never simultaneously see them together in a rehearsal. The rehearsal process was more similar to the feeling you have with shooting where you go, "That seems good, and when that's put together with this, it will be good, but I haven't seen it together yet." But he's very brilliant and intelligent and very thorough and he has that ability that actors who do plays have to repeat things without them becoming rote.

Palo Alto. Director Gia Coppola finding her voice

James Franco in a scene from Palo Alto, directed by Gia Coppola. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gia Coppola takes a while to open up as she discusses her directorial debut.

Like the teens she brings to life in Palo Alto, the soft-spoken 27-year-old explains she's still trying to find her voice. It's that kind of connection with her characters that made her want to adapt a book of short stories by James Franco for the big screen in the first place.

"I hadn't seen or read anything about teenagers that felt truthful and realistic in a long time and when I read his book I just really loved it," said Coppola, the granddaughter of Hollywood heavyweight Francis Ford Coppola.

"I loved that it was in the perspective of teenagers and I loved the dialogue and the emotion."

The film, which is dark and unsettling at times, follows the lives of teenagers in Northern California as they exhibit both reckless behaviour and a desire to connect with others.

Coppola said there was a lot in the characters' stories she could relate to, and that she made the film in the hopes that her audience, whatever their age, would feel the same.

Coppola tried to keep the film authentic by casting young actors to play key characters. Among them are Emma Roberts, Julia Roberts' niece, who plays the timid April, and Jack Kilmer, Val Kilmer's son, in the part of tender but easily influenced Teddy.

"They would tell me the new slang, they would keep me updated on what's cool and what's not cool," Coppola said with a smile. "I wanted to involve them as much as possible."

Coppola also made the decision to cast Franco as a high school football coach who has an affair with April, which meant she was directing the person who wrote the material her film was based on.

"He was so supportive when I needed him. I'd ask him for advice now and then but he also gave me a lot of freedom," she said of their working relationship.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

In on the act

"I think it might have been a little weirder for him to play a character that he wrote."

First time director Gia Coppola on casting James Franco in the film Palo Alto-based on his book of short stories.

ALAN CROSS

Cute cats, quirky Brit-pop and a dance track that doubles as a public health message

More Than Friends/Secret Broadcast

Given that the Internet seems to exist almost solely for cat videos, it made sense for Secret Broadcast to go with a feline theme for this single from their new album, Filthy Souls.

Ads/MOVIE

Yes, this South London band wants their name spelled in ALL CAPS, apparently. If you're into the same musical quirks as Franz Ferdinand, give this a listen.

Ebola in Town/D-12, Shadow and Kuzzy of 2Kings

With parts of western Africa in the midst of another Ebola outbreak, a trio of rappers created this dance track to help spread the word and urge everyone to be careful.

Video game review

Name. Watch Dogs

For. Xbox 360/PS3/Xbox One/PS4/PC

Rated. Mature 17+

● ● ● ● ●

If Watch Dogs were a movie it'd be boring. Its hero lacks charm and his tale of vengeance meanders painfully. Thankfully as a game it's full of car chases and gangland shootouts, enhanced with the ability to hack traffic systems and remote-trigger explosions. Chicago is full of people to spy on and its realism creates a wonderful playground for online hacker battles. Accessing secret areas and tracking down others is where things get interesting and I'd happily trade in all the action missions for a game focused just on that. KRIS ABEL

A bloody new take on vampires

The Strain. Guillermo del Toro returned to Toronto to film the much-anticipated TV series based on a trilogy of novels he co-wrote Mexican director Guillermo del Toro's new series, The Strain, is probably the most hotly anticipated television debut of the summer season.

But don't expect del Toro's fresh take on vampirism, which debuts July 13 on FX Canada, to be anything but bracingly and blood-chillingly original.

"I wanted to go much more beyond the man in the cape with the fangs and the funny accent," del Toro said, recalling his own youth as a "pale, thin kid" who had a deep fascination with vampires.

The Strain, based on a book trilogy he co-wrote with Chuck Hogan, was shot almost entirely in Toronto, the same city del Toro chose to shoot his big-budget monster-versus-robots movie Pacific Rim, which hit movie screens last year.

The story begins when a biological hazards team in hazmat suits discover a planeload of apparently dead passengers on the tarmac at a New York airport who turn out not to be so dead. They're infected with a parasitic organism that turns them into bloodthirsty vampires. It doesn't take long for the parasitic infection to become a global crisis.

Corey Stoll plays Dr. Ephraim Goodweather, the head of a team that investigates biological threats in The Strain, set to debut on FX Canada on July 13. Mexican director Guillermo del Toro shot the series almost entirely in Toronto. CONTRIBUTED

Del Toro said he's recently fallen in love with high-quality episodic television and saw it as the right medium to adapt the novels and to flesh out the characters.

"I realized that the long arc allows you to live with the characters in the way that no other medium does. It's not just a weekly adventure that is opened and closed. But you could actually follow characters for long arcs that last a season, two seasons or more. I was really attracted to that storytelling form," he said.

Del Toro said he's also created characters who are all too human in terms of their flaws.

"The idea with The Strain is that the vampires are striving for perfection and unity and uniformity, and the humans are a ragtag band of really marginal characters. I wanted from the beginning

Flawed heroes

"The idea with The Strain is that the vampires are striving for perfection and unity and uniformity, and the humans are a ragtag band of really marginal characters. I wanted from the beginning for fallibility to be beautiful. I didn't want the heroes to be great; I wanted them to do things that were wrong."

Director Guillermo del Toro

for fallibility to be beautiful. I didn't want the heroes to be great; I wanted them to do things that were wrong."

Casting of actors, including House of Cards' Corey Stoll as Dr. Ephraim Goodweather, a biological hazards expert, and David Bradley as former professor and Holocaust survivor Abraham Setrakian, took close to seven months.

Unexpectedly, there was no shortage of network suitors clamouring to add the series to their schedule, del Toro said.

"Every network we went to wanted the show. I was really, really quite amazed but that is not normal in the life of a storyteller. Usually we get kicked five times, and the one guy that gets it, you find by a pure miracle."

Not only did FX Networks president John Landgraf have a detailed knowledge of the source material, but del Toro said there was no talk about restraint in terms of expressing the rather graphic elements of the novels, including how the vampires feed on their hapless victims.

"The way the vampires feed ... is really, really brutal.

It's not a languishing girl in a nightgown by the moonlight with George Hamilton sucking softly on her neck. It's truly, truly much more parasitic than that," del Toro said. Even the promo image for the show, of an eyeball with a tube protruding from it, is chilling.

Eric Schrier, president of original programming and productions for FX Networks, said the series is the "most ambitious" ever undertaken by the network.

Schrier noted that the experience of shooting in Toronto was so positive, the network decided to locate production of another new series, Fargo, based on the Coen Brothers film, to Calgary, and Wayward Pines, which the network is producing for the Fox Network, to Vancouver.

"We had never shot a production in Canada until The Strain and this year, we spent over $100 million in production dollars across Canada," he said. "The crews and people here in Canada have been fantastic and we're looking forward to doing more production here."

Author John Green speaks at a recent The Fault in Our Stars fan event in Nashville. RICK DIAMOND/GETTY IMAGES FOR ALLIED

No fault in rising star among 'nerdfighters'

YA fiction. Unassuming Writer guy John Green finds fame as teen bestseller becomes film

When The Fault in Our Stars landed on bookshelves more than two years ago, John Green's enthusiasm was non-existent for a screen version of his story featuring teens with cancer.

"I had had some Hollywood experiences before that weren't great and I felt like Hollywood would struggle to make a movie where the female romantic lead has nasal cannula tubes in her nose for the entire movie," he said.

Well, hello 2014, and Monday night's premiere of TFIOS, the movie. It's the first of Green's bestselling books to go Hollywood after he was won over by the script's dedication to his characters in the clutches of adolescence. Oh, and it didn't hurt that one of the producers was a huge Liverpool soccer club fan like Green.

Already a rock star among young readers, mostly of the teen girl variety, the Orlando, Fla.-raised Green, the guy who looks straight out of central casting as Unassuming Writer, now walks red carpets, clowns on morning TV and banters with new BFF Nat Wolff and the movie's other young stars, Shailene Woodley and newcomer Ansel Elgort.

In a plaid button-down shirt and conservative suit jacket, it was the bespectacled, 36-year-old Green — not the hunky, younger Wolff — who got the loudest screams Saturday from several hundred girls who showed up for a panel discussion about the movie during the publishing industry's annual Book-Expo America.

Green leapt off the stage of the stuffed conference hall to bear hug a 16-year-old amputee, Robert Berger of Damerest, N.J. Berger, a high school sophomore with a prosthetic like TFIOS love interest Gus Waters, made his way to a microphone and referenced a bedroom scene when he offered: "I'd like to thank you, John, for answering a lifelong question of mine, which is, whether during sex, I keep my leg on or off."

Green, a father of two, is ever respectful of Berger and his other "nerdfighters," the community of fans worldwide that has led him to Hollywood's door and greet each other with his tagline: "Don't Forget to Be Awesome!" They even have a special thing they do with their arms, crossing at the chest and spreading their fingers in twos. You sort of

have to be there.

The writer was vigilant as a presence on the movie's set, sobbing when the filmmakers got it right and cheering on Woodley, Elgort and Wolff. Wolff is slated to star in the next stop on Green's big-screen journey for his Paper Towns.

So, can Green hold on to his mojo? Does the writer part of his brain now need to make peace with his developing big-screen brain?

"I hope that I'm not developing a Hollywood brain, to be honest with you. I love books. I love writing books. I love movies, too, but I am a book writer and if I'm lucky enough to be able to work with people who are great at making movies then I feel very fortunate, but I have no desire to become a movie person," he said.

Clubs, drugs, Power for suburban moms

Produced by 50 Cent.
Creator of drug-trade drama is betting that everybody can relate to show's message

Power, a gritty new drama debuting Saturday, is executive produced by 50 Cent and chronicles both the underpinnings of a brutal drug-trade life and the glamour of the clubs. It debuts Saturday at 10 p.m. on Super Channel.

But its creator, Courtney Kemp Agboh, balks when it's described as urban entertainment. The Emmy-nominated producer, whose credits include The Good Wife, sees the story as one that everybody can relate to — even suburban moms.

"In a real sense it's a show about a universal question," she says. "Does your past dictate your future? Can you change who you are? ... The show is really about a larger thing."

who doubles as a successful nightclub owner to conceal his illegal trade. While it's part gangster drama, it's also a love story: the married Ghost is pining for a long lost love who has made her return. He also seeks to shed his life of crime in hopes of finally becoming a legit businessman.

While the show is based in part on 50 Cent's own transformation from drug dealer to rap superstar, Agboh, who created the show with him, also used her late father as inspiration.

"My dad was an advertising guy, and he was very invested in the idea that perception is reality and that if you looked good, and you smelled good and you sounded good, that people would believe whatever you had to say and you were able to manipulate people's opinions of you through image," she said. "As a black man he felt he got access to people and experiences as a result of dressing a certain way, and sounding a certain way and having a certain educational background. When my dad died, I felt like I really needed to write about him and write about his experiences."

The death of Agboh's father in 2011 was a turning point for her. It was after he died that Power began to become a reality.

"This is the first show I ever pitched, the first show I ever sold, the first show I ever wrote for money," she said.

"Things happened at once."

It's another high point for Agboh, who started off as a magazine writer before leaping into television writing, then producing.

"I wanted to be the first black female editor-in-chief of Vogue magazine and that totally didn't work out," she laughed.

As one of the few black women behind a TV series, there are obvious comparisons to Shonda Rimes, whom with the success of shows like Scandal and Grey's Anatomy has become one of the most powerful figures on television. But Agboh sees few similarities besides their skin colour and gender, both of which she downplays.

"I don't think it's about the race or gender of the showrunner; I think it's about what's compelling and what will bring people back," she said. "I'm grateful to Shonda if in fact her existence allows people to see me in a different way, but I don't think that we do the same thing nor should we be expected to."

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

Cox, 49, lives up to... er... in Cougar Town

MELINDA TAUB

Metro World News in New York City

Courtney Cox really does inhabit Cougar Town: The former Friend, 49, is reportedly set to marry Snow Patrol guitarist Johnny McDaid, who's 12 years her junior.

Though the two have been dating for less than a year, things have been going so well that they're discussing getting engaged, insiders say.

"Johnny loves her daughter Coco, and he wants to marry Courteney. They have discussed getting engaged and everyone thinks it is going to happen," a source tells Page Six.

Coco is Cox's 10-year-old daughter with her first husband David Arquette. They were married for 14 years, divorcing in 2013 after a long and rocky separation. Cox and McDaid met through Cox's close friend Jennifer Aniston, who apparently approves of the relationship. "All of Courteney's friends love Johnny, which is great because Jen wasn't so fond of David Arquette," the source says.

Ha! Poor, poor David Arquette. I'm glad Jennifer Aniston isn't best friends with my boyfriend. I feel certain I wouldn't pass muster. I can't even play guitar.

Dr. Dre ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

Dr. Dre buys $40M pad

If Dr. Dre is looking to downplay reports that he's basically a billionaire now, his latest real estate purchase isn't helping.

The rap mogul has reportedly closed on the $40 million mega-mansion in Brentwood, Calif., previously owned by Gisele Bundchen and Tom Brady, according to E! News. "He's about to close on the house (that he) and his wife, Nicole, purchased," a source says. The 18,700 square-foot estate sits on four acres and has five bedrooms and nine bathrooms, plus a home gym, solar panels and a chicken coop. As for his wealth, Forbes recently listed Dre as the wealthiest hip-hop artist of 2014, with a net worth of $550 million. But the recent sale of the Beats Electronics business — which he co-founded — to Apple could push him past the billion mark.

Justin Bieber

Racist vids haunt Biebs

Justin Bieber's past keeps coming back to haunt him, as yet another video has surfaced showing the then-14-year-old singer parodying his One Less Lonely Girl hit by using a racist slur instead, according to the Sun.

Sources say his team has known about the video for years but refused to pay the $500,000 demanded by whoever ended up leaking it.

As is becoming his custom, Bieber was quick to apologize, the second time he's done so for a racist video from his past in less than a week. "Facing my mistakes from years ago has been one of the hardest things I've ever dealt with," he says in the new statement.

Beer born in Ontario

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therealwineguy
liquidassets@eastlink.ca

Back in the '80s, Bob and Doug McKenzie turned our appreciation of a cold brew into something as iconically Canadian as playing street hockey or sewing a maple leaf on your backpack.

In this age of innovative craft beer, two other Canucks have taken our liquid history a little more seriously. Alan McLeod and Jordan St. John's new book Ontario Beer: A Heady History of Brewing from the Great Lakes to the Hudson Bay (The History Press, $21.99) is a lovingly researched look back at the life and times of Ontario's vibrant brewing culture.

Finding a beer from that province with national distribution, not made by a big-time brewery, can be tough. While Creemore Springs' Premium Lager (473 ml, $2.85 - $3.99) may be part of the Molson family, it's kept its regional personality with a shot of malt and light hops. It's well-rounded and session worthy (meaning you can enjoy a few in one sitting).

It's a great barbecue

beer, meeting sweet and savoury flavours somewhere right in the middle.

When in doubt, wrap your app in prosciutto

Baked Prosciutto-Wrapped Jalapeno Poppers. There is a simple way to slim down these traditionally fat-laden bites

Standard jalapeno poppers are thumb-sized hot peppers stuffed with cream cheese and cheddar cheese, then breaded and deep-fried. Yummy, but most home cooks aren't too excited for the mess of deep-frying. That's why there also is a baked version — half a jalapeno stuffed with cheese and wrapped in bacon.

Both types are delicious, but neither is all that healthy. So this version delivers gratification without overdoing it.

From a culinary point of view, jalapeno poppers make complete sense. Nothing tames a chili's heat like dairy.

That's why so many cultures serve their fiery entrées with dairy as a side dish. Mexicans team up spicy tortillas with crema. Indians serve hot curries with yogurt-based raita. And that's why cheese is right at home in a jalapeno popper. But it doesn't have to be high-fat

Ingredients

- 4 oz fresh goat cheese
- 1 oz grated Parmigiano-Reggiano cheese
- 1/4 cup finely chopped scallion greens
- 2 tsp grated lemon zest
- 6 jalapeno peppers
- 3 oz (12 slices) prosciutto

This recipe serves six. MATTHEW MEAD/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

cheese. The fresh goat cheese in this recipe delivers the required creaminess, while a modest amount of Parmigiano-Reggiano delivers the required flavour.

Brighten up the filling with scallions and lemon zest, then wrap the stuffed jalapeno in prosciutto. Though it has a lot less fat than bacon, prosciutto boasts big pork flavour. And when it's baked, as it is here, it's nice and crispy, which eliminates the need to coat the pepper with bread crumbs.

1. Heat the oven to 450 F. Line a rimmed baking sheet with foil, then coat it with cooking spray.

2. In a medium bowl, combine the goat cheese, Parmigiano-Reggiano, scallion greens and lemon zest. Halve the jalapenos lengthwise and carefully remove the ribs and seeds (wear rubber gloves if necessary to protect your hands). Stuff each half with the cheese mixture, being sure to use all of the cheese mixture.

3. Wrap 1 slice of prosciutto around each stuffed jalapeno half, overlapping the ends of the prosciutto on the bottom of the jalapeno. Arrange the poppers on the prepared baking sheet, then bake on the oven's centre rack until the prosciutto is slightly crispy, about 15 minutes.

Summer launch party

On June 7, the Glenbow is throwing an art party to kick off the summer season. This is your first chance to view the noteworthy Masterworks exhibition while you sip on champagne and party like royalty. The summer launch party will be one classy affair with high-end libations, great fashion, first-rate entertainment and a backdrop that will include works by Salvador Dali, Henri Matisse and Eugene Delacroix. Don't miss out on a fabulous evening. To purchase tickets: glenbow.org

The breast fundraiser around

Ladies, you're in luck! On June 12, you can stop into Vagabond Brewery to participate in the fourth annual bachelor auction. For only $10, you can take in some serious eye candy and bid on the handsome bachelors who will be auctioned off throughout the evening. According to sources, there will be a UFC fighter and well-known comedian ready for your best offer. Sales from all tickets will be going towards the Rethink Breast Cancer organization. rethinkbreastcancer.com

Adult Night

The second Thursday of every month at TELUS Spark might be called Adult Night, but this is really just a fun opportunity to experience being a kid again. From 6 to 10 p.m. on June 12, the science centre is off limits to kiddies, which means the space and exhibits are yours to explore. The evening will also feature a licensed bar and DJ. This month the focus is on food and chemistry and you'll get to explore fermentation, molecular gastronomy, mixology, and find out what kind of foods actually shatter on impact when treated with liquid nitrogen. sparkscience.ca

The Pig and Pinot Festival

City Palate Magazine is throwing their annual Pig and Pinot party on June 18, when guests will have a chance to sample a succulent selection of swine and wine with all proceeds going to the Meals on Wheels charity. Thirteen chefs will prepare their signature dishes using Broek Pork Acres' Berkshire pigs, while the city's top sommeliers provide a grand selection of Pinot Noir (the perfect pairing). Once you've had your fill of food and drink you can also check out the solstice-inspired silent auction and the Sillybooth courtesy of Photobolic Inc. For tickets: eventbrite.ca

Bike Prom

Good Life Bikes and Cyclepalooza present Bike Prom 2014 as the kickoff to the Cyclepalooza Bike Festival. This is going to be an impressive promenade of old vintage cruisers, road bikes and everything in between as fans of two wheels hit the streets with panache. If you're looking to relive prom, then show up to Hillhurst Sunnyside Community Association on June 27 at 7:30 p.m. in your flashiest dress or suit. Following a bike ride around town, the party will commence back at the Community Association where you can enjoy some dancing and live music for $10. cyclepalooza.ca

Heat fade when temperatures rise

Spurs forward Tim Duncan shoots against the Miami Heat's Chris Bosh during Game 1 of the NBA Finals on Thursday night in San Antonio. The Spurs pulled away in the fourth quarter for a 110-95 win. POOL/GETTY IMAGES

NBA Finals.

Air conditioning malfunction only helps Spurs get hot in opener

The Spurs beat the Heat. Miami couldn't beat the heat.

And there was the story of Game 1 of the NBA Finals.

With LeBron James unable to play in the final 3:59 because of cramps, and on a night where an air conditioning failure inside San Antonio's arena had temperatures hovering over 30 C, the Heat simply withered in the final minutes. With their four-time MVP reduced to a spectator, Miami watched as San Antonio pulled away in the final minutes for a 110-95 win on Thursday night in the opener of the title series.

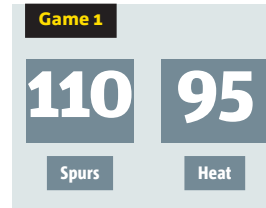

James scored the last of his 25 points on a layup that got Miami within two. That was the end of his night; he stood still on the baseline afterward, unable to move his left leg because of cramping.

His night was over, and soon, so was the game. The Spurs outscored the Heat by 13 the rest of the way, and took the series-opener for the second straight finals.

The Heat were outscored 36-17 in the fourth quarter.

Dwyane Wade scored 19 points, Chris Bosh added 18 and Ray Allen scored 16 for Miami. Rashard Lewis added 10 for the Heat.

Tim Duncan led the Spurs with 21 points and 10 rebounds. Tony Parker added 19 points and Manu Ginobili finished with 16 points and 11 assists for San Antonio, which improved to 10-1 at home in the playoffs.

James was affected throughout the second half, asking for breaks more than once, and some players placed ice bags on the backs of their necks in an effort to combat the temperature.

Duncan said the heat was a significant factor in the game.

"I don't know what happened to LeBron, but I think all of us were feeling the heat," Duncan said. "We were all dehydrated."

It's not the first time electricity has had a significant impact on a championship event in recent years. The Super Bowl in 2013 between Baltimore and San Francisco was marred by a power outage at the Superdome in New Orleans, interrupting play for 34 minutes.

Power was the culprit in Game 1 of the finals as well, arena officials said.

"An electrical failure for the power that runs the AC system in the AT&T Center has occurred," Spurs Sports and Entertainment said in a statement distributed in the second half. "We are continuing to work on resolving the problem."

MLB draft

Jays take big right-hander with 1st pick

The Toronto Blue Jays looked to improve their battery at Major League Baseball's first-year amateur draft, selecting pitcher Jeff Hoffman ninth overall and catcher Max Pentecost 11th overall.

Hoffman is a six-foot-four right-hander who went undrafted out of high school.

The 21-year-old played for East Carolina University with a 3.26 earned-run average but had Tommy John surgery on May 14.

Pentecost is a six-foot-two, 191-pounder who has hit .342 through three seasons at Kennesaw University.

Jays swing Tigers by tail for sweep

MLB. Toronto has won 19 of its last 23 games, breaking out brooms against Detroit, Oakland and Boston

John Gibbons was all smiles in the visiting manager's office after his Toronto Blue Jays wrapped up yet another sweep of one of the American League's most successful teams.

"We're feeling good right now," Gibbons said. "We're confident, and we're playing good baseball. We're rolling."

Juan Francisco and Brett Lawrie hit consecutive home runs in the sixth inning off Justin Verlander, and the Blue Jays completed a three-game sweep of the Detroit Tigers with a 7-3 victory Thursday. The AL East-leading Blue Jays have won 19 of 23, including sweeps of defending champion Boston, AL West-leading Oakland and AL Central-leading Detroit.

"It's a great atmosphere

— we've got a lot of positivity in here," Lawrie said. "Everyone likes to have fun, and everybody's comfortable with one another."

J.A. Happ (5-2) allowed three runs and seven hits in 6 1/3 innings for Toronto. Casey Janssen got the final out for his 10th save in 11 chances. He needed only one pitch to retire Nick Castellanos on a line drive to left with two on.

Melky Cabrera also homered for the Blue Jays.

Verlander (6-5) allowed six runs — five earned — and eight hits in seven innings. He walked four and struck out four. Toronto scored three runs each in the fourth and sixth innings.

"My fastball was great today, but I just missed some off-speed pitches," Verlander said. "If I execute those four or five pitches, this would have been a fantastic game. I feel like I'm turning the corner with the mechanical adjustments I've made. I know the results don't reflect that, but I felt great out there."

With the score tied at 3, Adam Lind drew a leadoff walk in the sixth. Francisco followed with a homer to right, and Lawrie's drive to left made it 6-3.

"Against a guy like that, you can't really be on your heels," said Lawrie, who did not have an at-bat against Verlander before Thursday. "You've got to be ready to go. Worked a couple good at-bats against him today, and ended up putting one in play, and it ended up being big for us."

It was the 10th homer of the season for both Francisco and Lawrie. Toronto has hit a major league-leading 87.

The Tigers are still in first place, but they should no longer feel too comfortable after dropping 13 of their last 17. The last time Detroit en-

Blue Jays pitcher J.A. Happ is congratulated by Juan Francisco and Dioner Navarro after being relieved in the seventh inning of a game against the Tigers at Comerica Park in Detroit on Thursday. DUANE BURLESON/GETTY IMAGES dured a 4-13 stretch spanned the end of the 2010 season and the beginning of 2011, according to STATS. In 2011, of course, the Tigers began a streak of three straight division titles they're now hoping to extend.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

You won't take kindly to others telling you what to do. Anyone who thinks they can order you around is going to find that you are in no mood to take it. There should be only one person calling the shots now — you.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

You will get the chance to move up in the world today but act quickly. Uranus, planet of the unexpected, will bring sudden upheavals. Though they may seem a bit frightening, they'll work in your favour.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Today's Sun-Uranus link will give you remarkable ideas but it is what you do with them that matters. Dreams are fun, but are they the sort that can be turned into realities?

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

This is unlikely to be an easy day but it can be profitable. If someone in a position of authority challenges you to do better you must take up that challenge, no matter how unfair it appears to be.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

You will receive some criticism today but don't overreact. That may make matters worse. Is there some truth in what they are saying about you? Maybe you should listen and learn.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

You will have to fight for your rights today. If you don't and let others eat away at your privileges, you may have none left by the time of the full moon on the 13th.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

The slightest thing is likely to set you off but getting angry is actually the best thing you could do. It will remind others you aren't the sort who can be taken for granted.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

You may find it hard to admit you were wrong about something but you have no choice. If you have been found out for playing fast with the truth, admit it and promise not to let it happen again.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

You should be making progress now and if you are not it can only be a matter of time. Make an effort to move up in the world and make sure others can see you're going places.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Your views may be out of the ordinary, but no way should you change them. According to the planets they are closer to the truth than you realize, so keep searching.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

Seek out those who are different and don't be afraid to show them you're different too. With Uranus, your ruler, on excellent terms with the Sun anything out of the ordinary will work in your favour.

Pisces

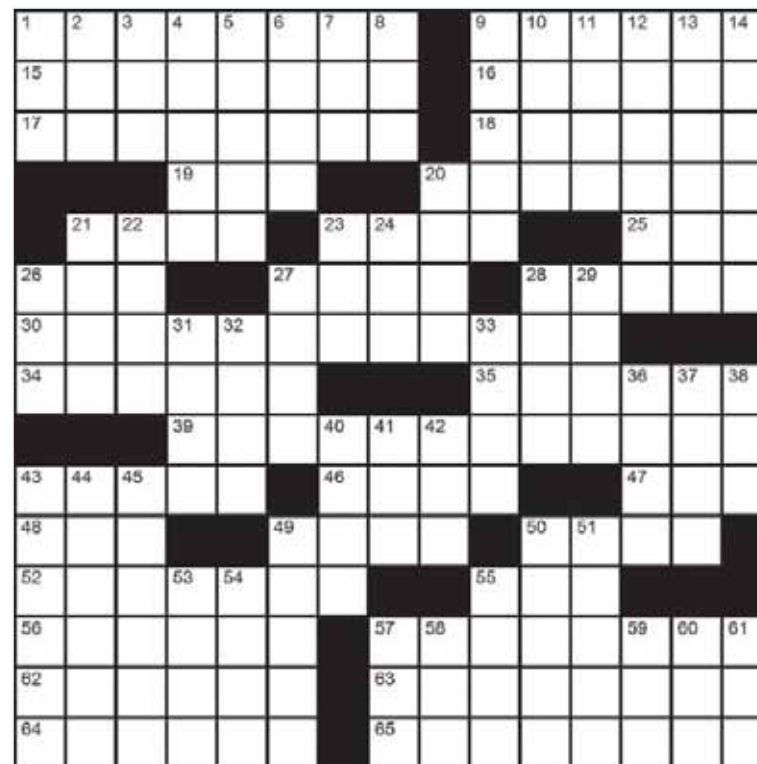

Feb. 20 - March 20

Be more adventurous when it comes to your finances. What worked in the past may not work as well now, so look ahead and find new ways to boost your earning power and bank balance. SALLY BROMPTON

GOD WILL SHOW UP

"Did not we cast three men bound into the midst of the fire?" They answered and said unto the king: True, O king. He answered and said, Lo, I see four men loose, walking in the midst of the fire, and they have no hurt: and the form of the fourth is like the Son of God" (Daniel 3:24b & 25). The magnitude of that problem notwithstanding, when God shows up, it becomes history. Trust Him to show up in your situation. (For Prayers and counselling speak to the pastor at 403.992.8656)
